National foreword

This Section of BS 684 was prepared under the direction of the Food and Agriculture Standards Committee and is identical with ISO 5558:1982 “Animal and vegetable fats and oils — Detection and identification of antioxidants — Thin-layer chromatographic method”, published by the International Organization for Standardization (ISO).

Terminology and conventions. The text of the International Standard has been approved as suitable for publication as a British Standard without deviation. Some terminology and certain conventions are not identical with those used in British Standards; attention is especially drawn to the following. The comma has been used as a decimal marker. In British Standards it is current practice to use a full point on the baseline as the decimal marker. Wherever the words “International Standard” appear, referring to this standard, they should be read as “British Standard”.

Additional information. In clause 1, the antioxidant listed first has the lowest R_f value.

A British Standard does not purport to include all the necessary provisions of a contract. Users of British Standards are responsible for their correct application.

Compliance with a British Standard does not of itself confer immunity from legal obligations.
