

Timber structures — Glued laminated timber — Strength classes and determination of characteristic values

The European Standard EN 1194:1999 has the status of a
British Standard

ICS 79.060.99; 91.080.20

National foreword

This British Standard is the English language version of EN 1194:1999.

The UK participation in its preparation was entrusted by Technical Committee B/525, Building and civil engineering structures, to Subcommittee B/525/5, Structural use of timber, which has the responsibility to:

- aid enquirers to understand the text;
- present to the responsible European committee any enquiries on the interpretation, or proposals for change, and keep the UK interests informed;
- monitor related international and European developments and promulgate them in the UK.

A list of organizations represented on this subcommittee can be obtained on request to its secretary.

Additional information

It should be noted that design stresses in the form of characteristic values (as described in this standard) are suitable for use in designs carried out to ENV 1995-1-1, but are not appropriate for use in permissible stress designs carried out to BS 5268-2.

Cross-references

The British Standards which implement international or European publications referred to in this document may be found in the BSI Standards Catalogue under the section entitled “International Standards Correspondence Index”, or by using the “Find” facility of the BSI Standards Electronic Catalogue.

A British Standard does not purport to include all the necessary provisions of a contract. Users of British Standards are responsible for their correct application.

Compliance with a British Standard does not of itself confer immunity from legal obligations.
