

Slow heat release appliances fired by solid fuel — Requirements and test methods

The European Standard EN 15250:2007 has the status of a
British Standard

ICS 97.100.30

National foreword

This British Standard was published by BSI. It is the UK implementation of EN 15250:2007.

The UK participation in its preparation was entrusted to Technical Committee RHE/28, Domestic solid mineral fuel appliances.

A list of organizations represented on RHE/28 can be obtained on request to its secretary.

EN 15250 is a candidate “harmonized” European standard and fully takes into account the requirements of the European Commission mandate M/129 “Space heating appliances”, given under the EU Construction Products Directive (89/106/EEC), and intended to lead to CE marking. The date of applicability of EN 15250 as a harmonized European standard, i.e. the date after which this standard may be used for CE marking purposes, is subject to an announcement in the Official Journal of the European Communities. The Commission in consultation with Member States has agreed a transition period for the co-existence of harmonized European Standards and their corresponding national standard(s). It is intended that this period will comprise a period, usually nine months, after the date of availability of the European Standard, during which any required changes to national regulations are to be made, followed by a further period, usually of 12 months, for the implementation of CE marking. At the end of this co-existence period, the national standard(s) will be withdrawn. In the UK, there are no corresponding national standards.

This publication does not purport to include all the necessary provisions of a contract. Users are responsible for its correct application.

Compliance with a British Standard cannot confer immunity from legal obligations.

This British Standard was published under the authority of the Standards Policy and Strategy Committee on 30 April 2007
