Foreword

ISO (the International Organization for Standardization) is a worldwide federation of national standards bodies (ISO member bodies). The work of developing International Standards is carried out through ISO technical committees. Every member body interested in a subject for which a technical committee has been authorized has the right to be represented on that committee. International organizations, governmental and non-governmental, in liaison with ISO, also take part in the work.

Draft International Standards adopted by the technical committees are circulated to the member bodies for approval before their acceptance as International Standards by the ISO Council.

International Standard ISO 1791 was developed by Technical Committee ISO/TC 59, Building construction.

This second edition was submitted directly to the ISO Council, in accordance with clause 6.11.2 of part 1 of the Directives for the technical work of ISO. It cancels and replaces the first edition (i.e. ISO 1791-1973), which had been approved by the member bodies of the following countries :

Belgium	Italy	Spain
Brazil	Korea, Rep. of	Sweden
Denmark	Netherlands	Switzerland
Egypt, Arab Rep. of	New Zealand	Thailand
France	Norway	Turkey
Germany, F.R.	Peru	United Kingdom
Hungary	Poland	USA
India	Portugal	USSR
Iran	Romania
Israel	South Africa, Rep. of

The member body of the following country had expressed disapproval of the document on technical grounds :
